RAISE SPEED LIMIT FROM 8 TO 20 MILES

Council Committee Recommends Higher Traveling Rate for All Motor Cars.

UMLAUF FIGHTS CHANGE

Washington Ward Corporation Court to Get Deputy Sergeant—Beck Wants Help.

With the purpose of defining the municipal regulations as to the speed limit to be observed by automobiles, the Council Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform last night recommended to the Council that twenty miles per hour be set as the maximum. The recorded vote was 6 to 5 for that rate. Mr. Umlauf, delivering a vehement protest against what he termed "hasty action," in making the recommendation without referring it to a subcommittee for more deliberate consideration. Three score motor car people appeared to evidence their interest in the proposed change.

When the matter came up, Alderman Elliott advocated referring to a subcommittee. Mr. Ferguson thought that the present chaotic condition of the administration of the law as to the speed limit called for prompt action. Mr. Watkins said that the police had seen the folly of the eight-mile limit imposed by the present law, and that they had, without proper authority, made the rate after miles.

Umlauf Censures Board. C. B. Richardson spoke in behalf of the local automobilists, pointing out that a twenty-mile limit was established in most of the progressive States, and that it worked without any mishaps.

Victorious appeal for deliberate discussion of the change was voiced by Mr. Umlauf, who censured the Police Board for extending the speed limit in the face of the law of the city. He thought justice had been done.

On motion of Mr. Cutchins, the committee reported as a substitute for the ordinance proposed the stipulation that the maximum should be twenty miles, subject to such limitations and exceptions as may be imposed by the Police Board.

An ordinance to require the licensing and regulation of maternity hospitals, explained by Dr. Reade, was recommended. This ordinance is in accord with a general law passed by the last General Assembly.

Washington Ward Office. City Attorney Pollard was instructed to draw up an ordinance providing a deputy sergeant for the Corporation Court in Washington Ward. This was at the suggestion of Judge Wells, who pointed out in a letter to the committee that provision is made for such an officer in the consolidation ordinance. P. M. Martin was named for this office by Judge Wells, and he will receive a salary of $75 per month.

A new ordinance with respect to the city markets was presented by Chairman Don Leavy, of the Market Committee. It provides for the election of the clerk of the market by the Market Committee, instead of by the Council, as heretofore. A further section requires an increase of the sanitation tax imposed upon hawkers from 10 cents to 15 cents. Alderman Elliott made a hot fight to keep the tax at 10 cents, but Mr. Rogers succeeded in his contention to have the increase adopted.

Building Inspector Beck appeared in support of the proposition to create an extra deputy inspector and to raise the salary of the clerk in his office from $1,000 to $1,200. The committee recommended the adoption of these changes.

Stealing Wood From Park. The invitation of the League of American Municipalities to the city of Richmond to become a member of the league was rejected.

An ordinance to provide a keeper for the Joseph Bryan Memorial Park at $75 per month was taken up, and Mr. Watkins spoke heartily in favor of it, stating that depredations have been made on the tract, that wood had been cut, and that some protection ought to be afforded. The committee took the position that until the Finance Committee provided a salary for the keeper.

It would postpone action in the matter. It was recommended that the salary of the keeper of St. John's Burying Ground be made $75.

The committee rejected an ordinance calling for the appointment of a joint special committee on consolidation, consisting of the president of both branches of the Council—four Councilmen and three Aldermen—to investigate changes in the ordinances and management of the various departments of the city which may be necessitated by the terms of the annexation ordinance. It was felt that such action would unnecessarily divide up responsibility which is already vested in other committees.

MRS. CULP WINS TITLE TO FARM

Efforts of C. C. Gerhart Prove Unavailing in Henrico Circuit Court.

Judge Scott, of the Henrico Circuit Court, entered an order yesterday morning in the case of C. C. Gerhart against Mrs. Alma Culp, dismissing the suit. Gerhart sued for a share of a farm occupied by Mrs. Culp, who is his sister, since the Confederate War. The property is valued at about $7,000.

The evidence brought forth in the case showed that Gerhart and his father purchased the property, which is on the Darbytown Road, in Henrico county, before the war. After the war, when the farm had been devastated by the two armies, Gerhart went West and was not heard of until two years ago, when he returned to Virginia.

In the meantime a mortgage on the farm had become due, and it was sold under the hammer. Mrs. Culp purchased it, and by her labor and economy paid off all the debts for which it was liable. She improved the property a great deal, and it is now worth at least double what it was when she bought it.

Besides taking charge of the farm Mrs. Culp provided for her parents for years after the war until they died. Her mother was wounded during the war and was an invalid until she died. When Gerhart returned he claimed his share of the farm, and it was refused him. He had not been heard of for forty years, and Mrs. Culp declared that even if he had a claim in the property it would have been wiped out by the mortgage, which he wiped off. He claimed the statute of limitations on this question.

Judge Scott in his opinion stated that Gerhart had no claim in the property, either under the first purchase or as a legal heir. His long absence from his home and absolute failure to provide for his father during his lifetime were held reasons for excluding him from a share under either claim.

WESTBROOK DEED RECORDED

George E. Miller, of New York, Pays $87,000 for Valuable Tract.

A deed was recorded in the Henrico county clerk's office yesterday conveying to George E. Miller, of New York, 157 acres of Westbrook, the Ginter estate, from the owner, Mrs. Minnie E. Young, for $87,000. The sale was made through Elam & Funtsten. Mr. Miller will cut the tract into lots. The portion of this estate containing the Ginter home was recently sold to Jonathan Bryan for $35,000. The rest is now in the hands of Elam & Funtsten, and will be sold in building lots.

HURT BY STREET CAR

John Funn, Jefferson Hotel Waiter, Injured Near Bull Park.

John F. Funn, colored, a waiter at the Jefferson Hotel, was thrown from a car in front of the baseball park yesterday afternoon, and is thought to be internally injured. He was the last to get on the car, and was dragged for half a block before he fell to the ground. The conductor ran the car back, took him aboard, and carried him to Bennett's undertaking establishment, where he was placed in a carriage and sent to his home, 500 Goddin Street. It could not be ascertained at the time whether or not he was severely hurt, but there were several external injuries.

MILLERS EXECUTE QUIT-CLAIM DEED

Relinquish Rights of Easement Over Joseph Bryan Park to City of Richmond.

POND FREE NOW TO PUBLIC

Right to Cut Ice in Season Surrendered Without Consideration.

Removing the last cloud on the title of the city of Richmond to the full and free possession of the Joseph Bryan Memorial Park, George E. Miller and Mrs. Miller have executed a quit-claim deed, forever relinquishing the rights of easement over the property which they possessed. The most important of these easements was the privilege of using the pond on the tract for fishing and for cutting ice in the proper season. The continuation of such an encumbrance on the full use of the park by the public might have seriously interfered with their proper use and enjoyment of the new pleasure ground. The original tract, which embraced "Rosewood," the present site of the park, and "Westbrook," the property now in the possession of George E. Miller, was divided by deed of partition in December, 1881, by the terms of that deed J. B. Young was given "Westbrook," together with certain easements over "Rosewood," and these rights have descended through successive transfers to Mr. Miller.

The rights set forth in the deed creating the easements are several. One is the right to have grain ground free at the grist mill, which used to be on the park tract. There was also reserved the privilege of having all timber needed for the construction and repair of buildings on "Westbrook" saved free of charge at the "Rosewood" sawmill. Finally, "full, free, quiet and uninterrupted right" to enjoy the ice on the pond is given, along with the privilege of building an ice house.

"Rosewood" came into the possession of Mrs. Belle S. Bryan in 1909. On January 25, of this year, Mrs. Bryan and her sons gave the property to the city, stipulating that it should be forever set apart as a public park, dedicated to the memory of the late Joseph Bryan, and to be known as the Joseph Bryan Memorial Park. The city forthwith accepted the tract.

In relinquishing their rights over the new park property, Mr. and Mrs. Miller were actuated by public spirit and a desire to have the park free from being merely nominal, in order to comply with legal requirements. By their action, the last encumbrance on the public title to the land is cleared away, and the ice pond will be enjoyed by the public in the years to come.

POLICE COURT CASES

William Jones Sent to Grand Jury on Charge of Theft.

William Jones, alias John Johnson, was sent to the grand jury on a charge of theft yesterday morning on the charge of stealing from P. Pincus a gold ring, valued at $3, and $11 in cash, and also for breaking into the house of John Pincus, where it is alleged he took a gold watch and two chains, valued at $8, and a coat worth $5. He is also being held as a suspicious character, and will appear before the Hustings Court grand jury in the May term.

Daniel Smith and Ernest Jefferson, both charged with being fugitives from justice from Chesterfield, were turned over to the authorities of Chesterfield county. Fred Jensen, arrested for obtaining from David Childs $5 under false pretenses, was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Fliley Wingham, charged with being a deserter from the United States receiving ship Franklin, was turned over to the government authorities.

FORBES CASE TO-DAY

Alleged Automobile Speeder to Answer in Police Court.

Blanchard S. Forbes has been summoned to appear in the Police Court to-day to answer to the charge of Policeman C. B. Samuels that he exceeded the speed limit with his automobile.

J. Samuel Parrish will also appear before Justice Crutchedfield to answer to the charge brought by Building Inspector Beck of allowing his frame stable at 305 Park Avenue to be in an unsafe condition. The Building Inspector claims that Mr. Parrish had been ordered to remove the building when ordered to do so.

Takes Over Cemetery. Regulations concerning Maury Cemetery in Washington Ward were adopted last night by the Board of Commissioners on Cemeteries. The keeper of that cemetery was instructed to carry out the same rules which obtain in Oakwood and Fairview cemeteries, and especially in regard to the opening of graves and the rates to be charged for lots. No other business was transacted.

"TELEPHONE" NAME OF RICHMOND BABY

Census Man Requires Mother to Name Infant in a Hurry.

TOO MANY ENUMERATORS

Men Cannot Make Much Money. Several Families Are Dead Broke.

Prompt naming of a new baby was the result of a visit paid yesterday by one of Richmond's census enumerators. The census man got down the rest of the family, but the baby, who has been very recently added to the colored population of the greatest city in the South, was reported to be without a name. No blanks are provided in the reports for persons who are minus names, but the mother said she couldn't help that. She had heard a sermon up her mind what cognomen should be attached to her offspring. The enumerator, remembering his instructions, insisted that a name was absolutely necessary, and demanded that one be forthcoming immediately.

Thus adjured, the mother belatedly her memory for an appropriate name. Nothing common, she determined, should be snatched at her boy through-out his life. Then she had an inspiration. The baby, she attended church the night before, and heard a sermon from a certain parable. So she told the census taker to put it down as "Well Done."

Speculative Reasons. Perhaps she wants her son to be a good boy in the census reports. The innocent infant is chronicled, instead of as George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or Napoleon Bonaparte, as "Well Done" Smith or Jones, or whatever the surname may be.

At least two families who are next door neighbors are "broke." They are composed of culled persons. At first the enumerator knocked vigorously, and was rewarded by the appearance of a little girl, who came around the house. He told her to get her mother to take the census. The child disappeared, but no dark matron appeared at the door. After an interval he knocked again, whereupon the same little girl reappeared with the message, "Mama said I can't get a bit of money in no house."

Next door the "lady" was to home. The enumerator told her he was the census taker. She promptly replied: "Law sakes, child, I ain't got a cent to give you. You better go to the next house. I is a frequent visitor in these homes."

Work Is Unpleasant. Several enumerators have already completed their work and have rested from their labors. District Supervisor C. Ridgeway Moore thinks a mistake was made in having a too great number of these men in this city. There have been so many that for the most part each man has not made enough money to justify the trouble of the compensation and of informing himself as to his duties.

The Bureau of the Census in Washington suggested giving Mr. Moore so many men to a precinct. The supervisor, having never taken a census before, and not quite a large proportion of these. He cut down the bureau's number materially, but it now appears that not enough reduction in the number was made.

It is anticipated that every one of the census enumerators in Greater Richmond will have finished his work by April 30. If not, one of the other men will be detailed to assist before that date. In the country districts the census takers have until May 15.

One of the enumerators quit yesterday, but another man was ready to take his place.

Mr. Moore is pleased at the readiness with which the people of this city have responded to his appeal for full participation in the enumeration. Many of the information gatherers have not reported a single case of refusal. Others have had a little trouble, but it has been settled through the intervention of the inspectors, with the exception as to the probable anger of Uncle Sam in case the questions were not answered. He can recall but one case where the necessary information has not been secured.

"What are you going to do with that case?" he asked yesterday.

"I am going to get the information," he said.

OFFICERS' SCHOOLS

Examination and Instruction of First Regiment Commanders.

Both the commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the First Battalion, First Virginia Infantry, went to school last night. The rooms for the examination and instruction were held at the headquarters of the regiment, and until a late hour the men who command were questioned by the officers of the regiment. For the most part they were found to have learned their lessons well, the battalion being regarded as one of the best in the division.

The men who have command were full uniform, and were quizzed by Major Lawrence T. Price, commander of the battalion. The non-com people went to school to Adjutant Charles Snead. They wore olive drab uniforms.

The latter were examined in guard mount, in outpost duty and in schools of company and battalion in closed and extended order.

Liquor License Transferred. In the Hustings Court yesterday morning the liquor license of William L. Butler, 12 North Eleventh Street, was transferred to Silvio C. Polk, who will hereafter conduct the business at 182 East Franklin Street.

FAY AND HARRIS OFF TO PRISON

Handcuffed to Guards, They Leave for Atlanta Penitentiary.

JAILER SYDNOR RELIEVED

Long Vigil by Henrico County Officers Ends With Removal of Cracksmen.

Each handcuffed to an officer and under guard, Eddie Fay and "Little Dick" Harris, convicted of cracking the post-office safe and stealing $36,000 in stamps, left here over the Seaboard Air Line yesterday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock to begin their sentence of ten years in the Federal prison at Atlanta. It is expected that they will reach there this morning shortly after 7 o'clock.

Owing to the fact that it was the general impression that they would leave the city on the late train yesterday, the crowd to see them off was diminutive as compared with that which was on hand at Elba on the morning of their arrival. Only a few of those who happened to be near the jail as the automobiles started out and one or two who got a tip that they would leave at that time were present.

Slipped Quietly Away. In order to save the convicted men as much embarrassment as possible, the automobiles slipped quietly up to the jail entrance just a few minutes before the train was due to arrive here. All was in readiness, and they were quickly whisked to the Main Street Station, where, after a short wait, they were conducted by the guards to the car which will take them to Atlanta.

Facing the long prison term, both men were calm. Harris, who has been in poor physical condition since the verdict was announced, seemed worse as he entered the train. His companion, Fay, however, seemed in good spirits and smiled as he went on to the platform.

It is different with them, Fay, now hardly more than a youngster, and in the best of health, feels that he will have a good part of his life before him, even if he is obliged to serve the full term, which is not likely if he behaves himself. But Harris is now fifty-four years old, and will have passed the best days of his life when he again sees the light of freedom.

As the prisoners were placed in the hands of the Federal authorities, a great sigh of relief went up from the guards who have been watching them night and day since their arrival at the Henrico County Jail. Last night for the first time in several weeks, Deputy Sheriff Snyder enjoyed undisturbed slumber under his own roof.

In spite of many predictions that the robbers would get away in the face of all precautions, he made good his statement that he would deliver their "bones" to the Federal authorities, and that they would never see money again that there were no takers.

As a matter of fact, there were few suspicious characters seen about the jail during the time Fay and Harris spent there, nor was there at any time any special cause for alarm. It may have been because the heavy guard which was kept at the jail, or it may have been that rumors as to confederates of the robbers were without foundation, but, however it was, they did not get away while in the limits of Henrico county, and no officer here will be responsible even if they succeed in jumping from the train between here and Atlanta.

Building Permits. Building and other permits were issued yesterday as follows:

W. H. Conley, to repair a brick stable, 417-419 North Fifth Street, to cost $100.

MAY ASK RECOUNT IN MADISON WARD

Three Candidates Have But That Many Ballots Between Them.

It does not seem to have been determined as yet whether or not the friends of Oscar E. Lohmann will ask for a recount of the ballots cast in the Democratic primary in Madison Ward. Mr. Lohmann lost by one vote, receiving 415 votes, his opponent, Barney Bowman, former treasurer of the City Committee, receiving 416 votes. James J. Burke, now a member of the Council from the ward, was but two ballots ahead, with 418. A recount would have all three on the anxious bench. Mr. Lohmann's friends have not alleged any irregularities, merely that the count is so close that the nearest error, the counting in of a scratched ballot or the exclusion of a ballot which should have been counted, may make the difference between election and defeat.

All of the ballots used were turned in in sealed boxes at the meeting of the committee Thursday night, and are now in a locked room under the care of Doorkeeper Hicks and the committee. The committee is scheduled to meet on Tuesday night, and at that time the matter will be gone into if Mr. Lohmann's friends ask it.

The meeting has been called to take up the question of nominees in Washington Ward, which became a part of the city too late to participate in the primary, but which plans to have candidates for the general election in June. A special primary may be called in that ward.

R. Z. Nelson, of Orange, and L. P. Manville, of Newport News, will leave with the Richmond party. Mrs. Murphy, of Richmond, and Miss Roe, of Fredericksburg, will be two of the sponsors on board.

Verdict for Defendant. In the case of Richmond Lithograph Company (Inc.) against the Lohmann Lithographing Company, on trial yesterday in the Law and Equity Court, a verdict was rendered for the defendant.

Judgment for Defendant. Judgment was entered in the Law and Equity Court yesterday in the case of the Hancock Clear Company against John B. Stockton for $217.80.

ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH COUNCIL

Celebration at St. John's on May 18 of Organization 125 Years Ago.

In connection with the annual meeting in Richmond next month of the council of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Virginia, there will be a celebration of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the church in what now constitutes the Dioceses of Virginia, Southern Virginia and West Virginia. This event will take place at 10 A. M. on May 18.

It is a notable fact that the council will meet in the same church and on the same day of the same month as did that first convention. The diocese, through a committee appointed at its last council, has taken steps to commemorate this important event in a suitable manner. Rev. Edwin L. Goodwin, historiographer of the diocese, will deliver an address on "The Personnel and Work of the First Convention." Rev. Robert A. Goodwin, the present rector of St. John's, will speak on "Rev. Miles Selden, the Last Colonial Rector of St. John's," and who more than thirty years held that position, and on Rev. John Buchanan, first rector of the church under the new conditions, and rector when the first convention was held. Memorial tablets to these two ministers will be unveiled at that time.

Special Services. The meetings of the council are to be held in Holy Trinity Church, but in view of the anniversary, this special service will be at St. John's. Organized and discussed as they were, because of the events of the Revolutionary War, and because the church had up to that time been under the supervision of the Church of England, the men who led the formation of a new organization. To this end the first church convention ever held in the old colony and the new State of Virginia was called to assemble at St. John's. There it began its history, and more than thirty years ago the Protestant Episcopal Church, on May 18, 1785.

OUTLINING ITS WORK. Campaign Committee of University College, Meets at Home of Mr. Branch. A meeting of the campaign committee appointed by the faculty of the University of Virginia, to propose the rebuilding of the college recently destroyed by fire, met last night at the home of John F. Branch, vice-president of the college, and outlined its work. A number of subcommittees were appointed to report at a further meeting to be held on Thursday night of next week, at the home of Edgar D. Taylor, on Monument Avenue.
